Keep the Peace! An Interactive Theatre Anti-bullying Program for K-12

Performance model

Big Apple Playback Theatre will carry out a series of interactive performances with all students at of the school to address issues relating to bullying and violence, including sexual harassment. In each performance, children will be invited to tell personal stories and feelings about bullying, which the performers will enact on the spot. Performances will be a vehicle to build empathy and tolerance and provide language, awareness, and empowerment so that children are prepared to respond effectively when and if bullying or harassment happens.

Performances take place for up to two classes/50 students at a time.

We can schedule up to three one-hour performances per day. Minimum duration for a show is 50 minutes. We need at least 15 minutes between shows, with a longer break preferably between the second and third shows.

BAPT will provide a lesson plan for teachers with guidelines for preparation and follow-up.

Cost (covers performer fees; performer preparation; administration; planning meetings; materials; and travel expenses): To be discussed with client.
